

SENEGAL

Senegal is a West African Country, mostly flat and with a poor water system.

CASAMANCE

Project for the orphans

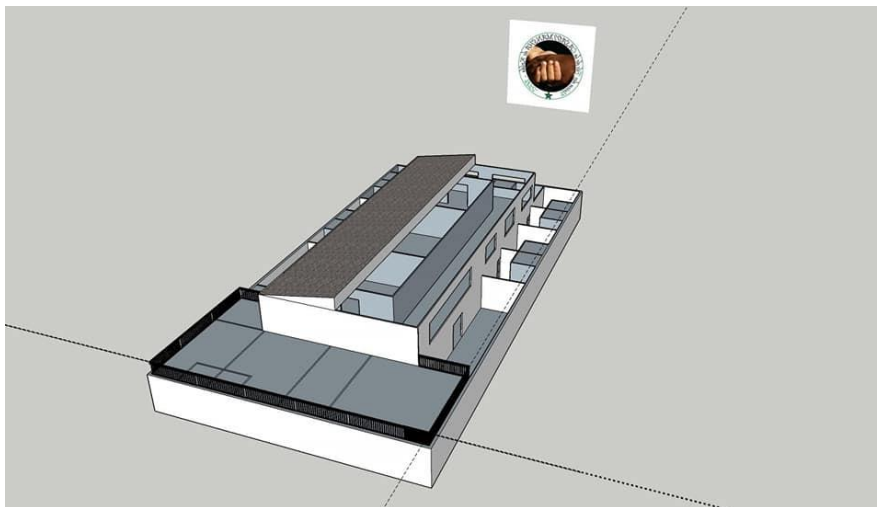

Casamance is an area in the south of Senegal that, from 1982 to 2018, has been harshly hit by the rebellion. War caused the population to run from the countryside and go seek refuge in the cities in the north of the Country. It is still possible to find landmines in the forests.

In such context, in the city of Kolda, operates the association “Union des fils de la Casadimansha”. Established in 2016, it started with the distribution of gift packages to the children of the school and then it decided to build and manage a centre that could host the orphans.

The health care system is inadequate: there is only one hospital for each city, everything is private and the death rate of young mothers is very high.

In 2018 the association built, in the area they bought for the construction of the centre, an artesian well.

We supported the project with € 2.500.
